Dear Mr. Stevens,

I am a Career Civil Servant. By now I have trekked all across the Himalayas and Western Ghat. Few years back while talking to the Chief Minister of Himachal Pradesh Mr. Virbhadra Singh, he suggested to me to visit Great Himalayan National Park. He told me that it is one of the few places on the earth where the mother nature is still not mutilated and scarred by human beings.

On several occasions, when burnt out by the hectic city life, I rush to this little heaven called GHNP. I have gone there all alone to do solo trek. I have also gone with my family and did camping and trekking. I have also taken meetings of the local villagers and forest officials to raise their awareness, on conservation issues.

I personally feel that Great Himalayan National Park is one of the most beautiful places on this planet. It has gurgling streams full of trouts, snow capped peaks, aroma of pine forest, smiling and fragrant flowers and very eco-friendly local community.

I sincerely hope that GHNP is added to the list of UNESCO World Heritage Sites. I believe that this will help to preserve this natural heaven on earth. Please let me know whatever I can do to support this effort and cause.

Yours ever,

Yogender Chaudhry
